"Every time the Governorment has a few favorites, it has a great mass of victims," the Governor said.

Party of Trusts.

Party of Trusts.

The speaker showed how England had ebandoned the granting of patents on the ground that the principle was promotion of monopolies, and he appealed to his hearers to ponder well before they supported the party of trusts and monopolies next Tuesday.

The Republican party was severely condemned for shutting out competition through its tariff laws, and the Governor was withering in his sarcastic references to the President's dealings with the Northern Securities case.

"After winning this little case," he said, "Mr. Knox declared: Til go no further; I don't want to run amuck," Where is Mr. Knox now?" asked the Governor. "He has gone from fighting the trusts to succeed one of the greatest plum tree shaking senators in this councry—the late Mr. Quay, of Pennsylvania."

The speaker fairly flayed Mr. Cortelyou in discussing the performances of the Republican chairman, and asked amid great laughter had he eyer had any experience either as a laborer or commercial man that he should be put at the head of this great department?

"He was made chairman," he said, "because he had been diligent in business, if not fervent in spirit."

The speaker believed the trusts were for the President, and that Mr. Cortelyou and done much to bring them in line.

In discussing corruption in election the Governor said: the Governor said:

"I say to you a people whose confidence (sed knows I would not violate for my life I would write it in the statutes of this country if I could that a man who would self his vote should never again be permitted to cast a ballot so long as he should live."

"Governments cannot make men prosperous further than to unshackle their buckles and give each a fair chance in the race of life, as fair as that, given to any other man.

the race of life, as fair as that, given to any other man.

"You have beand of graft in this country, my friends. All this counes from Republican policies."

The Governor's references to President Rosevelt were exceedingly biting, and he arraigned the Philippine policy of the administration, and drew an elegent word picture of the documes of the Demogratic party with reference to foreign possessions.

the Demograph party with reference to foreign possessions.

"We must carry a big stick and walk softly now," said the Governor, in discussing the President further, and he read some, extracts from ex-Governor Eleath's speech nominating Mr. Roosovelt, and his comments upon them were exceedingly interesting and entertaining. The Governor's peroration was an elequent and beautiful one, and when he declared that the country needed for President a man, not with his foot on the Constitution and his hand on the sword, but a man with his foot on the sword and his hand on the Constitution, there was another wave of applications which almost shock the half with its force.

Meredith introduced Mr. Kelley.
The popular legislator, who is an orator of no mean distinction, was most cordially received, and spoke of the difficulties of following such a speaker as Governor Montague; but he proved that he was a good crowd-holder himself.
Mr. Kelley went at once into a discussion of the issues, and in tulking of the fight for Congress in the Third District he said humorously that the Republicans had so many voice that they must needs had so many votes that they must need divide them between two candidates. The speaker discussed the tariff quesmaner, and in types and forceful worse.

he defined the difference between the policies of the two parties. Mr. Kelley denounced as unfair and improper a system which permitted the sale of American made goods to fore kners at a cheaper price than they could be purchased at home, and he declared that he objected to being taxed for the benefit of men who make more maney in one year than he could make in his whole life.

Mr. Kelley said uncat diamonds came in free of duty, while the turiff on plow points was 132 per cost, and then he went on to illustrate the unfairness of the Regulilcan tariff bill by declaring that American sitel rails could be purchased in Canada cheaper than they were sold in this country.

Mr. Kelley was frequently applauded, and the meeting was in every respect eminently satisfactory, and will hear fruit Tuesday.

GRAND DEMONSTRATION. The Next Governor Winds Up

His Campaign at Home.

His Campaign at Home.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 5—
Captain R. B. Glenn, Democratic nominee for Governor, had arranged to make his closing speech of the campaign in his home county Monday, but to-day he accepted an earnest invitation to speak in Greensboro Monday night, after filling his appointment in the western part of this county that afternoon. The campaign is telling on Captain Glenn's nervous system, and he is glad that the contest will soon end. He remarked this afternoon that he didn't believe he could hold out making speeches many weeks longer. He made two stirring addresses to-day, the first at Rural Hall this afternoon, and the second at Kernersville tonight. He was greeted by large and enthusiaste crowds at both places. At Kernersville the Democratic nominee was given a royal reception. He was met at the train by a brass band and a large concourse of people.

A parado followed, with a float, containing twenty-two young ladles. After the speaking refreshments were served by the ladies of the town. In both addresses to-day Captain Glenn proved that he believes in standing by his friends. He appealed to his hearrs to vote the straight Democratic tleket. He urged every Democratic to vote for Congressman W. W. Kitchin, instead of Postmaster C. A. Reynolds, Republican nominee for Congress, who is anxious to carry his home county.

Kitchin, instead of Postmaster C. A. Reynolds, Republican nominee for Congress, who is anxious to carry his home county. "If you must scratch any Democratic nominee, scratch my name and vote for Kitchin for me." said Captain Glenn in a tone of voice that convinced every hearer he meant what he said.

Captain Glenn will spend Sunday at home with his family.

HENRICO COUNTY, Nov. 6 .- There is o election in this county this fall, as the pot simmereth not. Sheriff Solomon and Commissioner Chil-dress have, accordingly, plenty of time to go hunting and Commonwealth's Attor-ncy Wendenburg can fish all day long in the fountial on his front lawn. The strenuous times in Henracker seem to be at an end, and there is not enough enthus asm to make a small bet on the election in New York. Some of the restdents of Short Pump and Shumaker's don't even know who's running for Governor of Utah, and Sheriff of Shockoe Silp.

We can't even get up excitement enough to start an out-door meeting, and when two strennous chizens get into an argument about the dog tax, the echoes received and echo again, so quiet are things on Falton Hill and Highland Fark.

Although Tuesday will be national election day, already many hunding partied are being formed, and it is quite likely that numbers of the ballots will remain uncalled for.

Mr. John C. Garrett, uncle of the young nan was summoned to Danville last light on account of the accident.

Hold-Up That Did Not Hold. Hold-Up That Did Not Flott.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

HEATHSVILLE, VA., Nov. 5.—During the past Yew weeks several "hold-ups" have been reported from the lower part of the county. One of particular interest was the holding up of Bozey Crabbs, by a gaing of negroes, a few nights ago, it was by no means a successful "holdup," as the horse became frightened and rain away, tearing up the buggy and dragging Crabbe quite a distance. Crabbe and his brother, armed themselves and won back to the scene of the "hold-up," but were unable to find anyone.

Tanning Fish Skins.

The United States Fish Commission has giving considerable atten-The United States Fish Commission has recently been giving considerable attention to utilizing the skns of water animals for clothing. They have already proved that several kinds of dish skins make excellent leather for some purposes. Salmon hide is found not only serviceable for boots but among the Eckimos it has been used for generations in muting waterproof clothes. The people of the far North also use codish skins for jie'ets. The skins which the Fish Commission people have found practicable and durable are whale skins and seal leather, which dye in heautiful colors.

Since old Geronimo, the noted Apache chieftain, now if years of age, became an attraction in the Indian Building at the Louisham Purchase Exposition, in St. Louish he has learned to spell and print his name and is very proud of the accomplishment learned at his advanced age.
